An Account of the CORONATION of the KING and QUEEN.

THEIR Majeſties, and the Princeſs Dowager, went through the Park from St. James's in Chairs, and their Attendants in Coaches, at Nine o'Clock this Morning, to Weſtminſter-Hall, from whence they went about Eleven to the Abbey, where their Majeſties were CROWNED, and about Five got back to the Hall, where they dined in a moſt magnificent Manner, and in the Preſence of ſuch a Number of Spectators, as is ſcarce credible, and all as richly dreſs'd as poſſible. The whole Way of the Proceſſion was lined with Spectators upon Scaffolds built on Purpoſe, and every one made a Point of appearing richly dreſs'd. Upon the whole, it made the moſt ſplendid Appearance that can poſſibly be conceived. Coaches were going all Night, and from the vaſt Number, they could not go above a Mile in 3 Hours.

END of the PROCESSION.

Laſt night all the gates of St. James's Park were ſhut, in order to prevent the Park's being crowded by the mob this day, and will not be opened for common paſſage till to-morrow morning.

Eight hundred Gold Medals were ſtruck, 400 for the King and 400 for the Queen; one half of which were diſtributed in the Abbey, and the other in the Hall; beſides which a great Quantity of Silver ones were ſtruck and toſſed amongſt the Populace.

The major Part of the Company in Carriages were obliged to be ſet down at Charing-Croſs, and the reſt of the Way, either to the Hall, Abbey, or Scaffolding, they were to walk or get along as well as they could.

His Majeſty's train was ſupported by ſix Lords, eldeſt ſons of Peers, viz.

Viſcount Mandeville,	Marquis of Hartington,
Lord Howard,	Lord Gray,
Lord Beauchamp,	Lord Newnham,

And at the end of it, the Maſter of the Robes, the Hon. James Brudenell.

The golden Spurs were borne by the Earl of Suſſex with the Duke of Marlborough on his right carrying the Scepter with the Croſs; and the Duke of Kingſton on his left, with St. Edward's ſtaff.

The Curtana was borne by the Earl of Lincoln, with the Earl of Suffolk on his right carrying the ſecond ſword; and the Earl of Sutherland on his left, carrying the third ſword.

The Queen's Crown was borne before her by the Duke of Bolton; the Scepter with the Croſs, by the Duke of Rutland; and the ivory rod with the dove by the Earl of Northampton. Her Majeſty had on her head a circlet of gold adorned with jewels. On her right hand was Dr. Thomas, Biſhop of Wincheſter, and on her left Dr. Hayter Biſhop of Norwich. Her train was ſupported by her Royal Highneſs Princeſs Auguſta, aſſiſted by ſix Earls daughters, viz.

Lady Mary Grey,	Lady Selina Haſtings,
Lady Eliz. Montague,	Lady Heneage Finch,
Lady Jane Steuart,	Lady Mary Douglas.

Princeſs Auguſta's Coronet was borne by the Marquis of Carnarvon.

The Dukes of Acquitaine and Normandy were repreſented by Sir William Breton, and Sir Thomas Robinſon, Bart.

Two thouſand eight hundred of the foot guards attend on duty this day during the coronation.

This Morning, about 7 o'Clock, ——— Dymocke, Eſq; Champion of England, was eſcorted from his Houſe in Surry Street in the Strand, by a Party of Light-Horſe to Weſtminſter-Hall.

Several engines and large backs filled with water are ready, in caſe of accidents, in the garden where the kitchen is erected for dreſſing the coronation dinner.

A ſmall tent is fixed on the left ſide of the platform in Old Palace-yard, for Lord Ligonier, as commanding officer of the guard on duty, where he is to pay his ſalute to their Majeſties as they paſs in proceſſion.

There were ſeveral Parties of the Light-Horſe planted this Morning in different Parts of the Town, ſuch as in Lincoln's-Inn-Fields, Covent-Garden, Somerſet-Houſe, &c. who patrolled the Streets all Day, to ſuppreſs Riots, Tumults, &c.

On Tueſday laſt his Majeſty, after dinner, in Weſtminſter-hall, was pleaſed to confer the honour of Knighthood on Charles Townley, Clarencieux King of arms.

His Majeſty, according to ancient cuſtom, was alſo pleaſed to confer the honour of Knighthood on John Bridges, Eſq; ſtandard bearer, and Owen Jones, Eſq; ſenior of the band of gentlemen penſioners.

In the courſe of the coronation office, the litany was chanted by the Biſhops of Cheſter and Chicheſter; and the reſponſes ſung to the organ by the gentlemen of the Chapel Royal and Choir of Weſtminſter.

In the communion ſervice the Biſhop of Rocheſter read the epiſtle, and the Biſhop of Litchfield the goſpel.

The Biſhop of Saliſbury (nominated to the See of York) preached; his Text was 1 Kings chap. x. v. 5. "Bleſſed be the "Lord thy God which delighted in thee to ſet thee on the "throne of Iſrael, becauſe the Lord loved Iſrael for ever, "therefore made he thee King, to do judgment and juſtice."

It is worthy obſervation, that his Grace the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, when rector of St. James's was preſent at the birth of our moſt gracious Sovereign, and baptized him the ſame day; and as Archbiſhop attended the proclamation of him as King on the death of his Royal Grandfather, and has ſince married and crowned his Majeſty.

The great diamond on the top of his Majeſty's crown dropt off in Weſtminſter-hall on Tueſday, but was luckily found immediately after dinner.

One of the Peereſſes in the proceſſion had the misfortune to loſe a large brilliant drop of immenſe value, ſet round with eleven brilliant leaves, from her ear-ring.

Several gentlemen, dreſſed in ſoldiers cloaths did duty laſt Tueſday, as foot-ſoldiers, on the ſide of the platform, in order the better to have a near view of the proceſſion.

The King's table was covered with 120 diſhes at three ſeveral times, ſerved up by his Majeſty's band of gentlemen penſioners at near eight. At this table dined the King, Queen, Dukes of York and Cumberland, and Princeſs Auguſta.

Great numbers of ſwords, watches, &c. were loſt by perſons going to the coronation. Several diamonds were dropt in the Hall; ſome of which were found again by their owners.

Immediately upon the Duke of Bedford's entering Weſtminſter-hall on horſe-back, who rode as Lord High Conſtable of England, and Earl Talbot with him as Lord High Steward, loud acclamations were given, which frightened the horſes, and it was with the greateſt difficulty his Grace managed his, being moſt unruly, upon which an officer entered the hall, and requeſted ſilence; then Mr. Dymocke, the Champion, with his attendance, entered, and throwing down his gauntlet, or ſteel glove, a Herald proclaimed the challenge, in the following words:

If any perſon, of what degree ſoever, high or low, ſhall deny, or gainſay, Our Sovereign Lord King GEORGE III. King of Great-Britain, France, and Ireland, defender of the faith, &c. grandſon and next heir to our Sovereign Lord King GEORGE II. the laſt King deceaſed, to be Right Heir to the Imperial Crown of this realm of Great-Britain, or that he ought not to enjoy the ſame, here is his Champion, who ſaith, that he lyeth, and is a falſe traytor, being ready in perſon to combat with him; and in this quarrel will adventure his life againſt him, on what day ſoever he ſhall appoint.

It is ſaid a certain Dutch lady, lately come over, appeared in jewels, on the coronation day, to the value of three hundred thouſand pounds.

Among the many magnificent decorations in Weſtminſter-Hall, there were 2574 wax-lights, which, on the Queen's entrance, were all lighted in leſs than two minutes.

There was an entire ſtagnation of all ſorts of buſineſs; the ſhops throughout the whole Metropolis were ſhut, and the ſtreets in general appeared as if it was ſunday.

VIENNA, September 5.

THE King of Pruſſia, who, according to our laſt accounts, was intrenched near Schweidnitz, is obliged to draw his proviſions from the magazines of that place and Breſlau. The Ruſſians are alſo ill ſupplied with proviſions, as they can bring none over the Oder; their ſubſiſtence is therefore brought from Bohemia. Liguitz ſerves them for a Place of arms.

From General Laudohn's army, near Freyberg, in Sileſia, Auguſt 24. The Ruſſian army is not ſo conſiderable as ours. Their artillery is very numerous, beſides which General Laudohn ſent them more artillery with our cavalry. Yeſterday the Ruſſians were in motion, and they are marching towards Striegau, near the Enemy, which may poſſibly bring on a general affair. Sileſia will be ruined by ſuch numerous armies.

Trautenau, Sept. 1. General Laudohn hath poſted his army ſo that it forms a chain from Freyberg to Bogendorff. Gen. Brantano occupies the heights of Striegau, Gen. Janus covers the right flank of the army near Bogendorff, and Gen. Beck has a communication with the Ruſſian army. The enemy are pretty near in the ſame ſituation as laſt year.

Prague, Sept. 5. The junction of the Ruſſian army with Laudohn's was made on the 25th, our regiments having been for five days drawn out in order of battle; but the enemy made no motion during that time. Immediately after their junction a council of war was held, in which it was reſolved to attack the King of Pruſſia in his Camp of Ober-Amſdorff; but next day his majeſty ſet fire to his camp, and fell back to Schweidnitz, which diſconcerted our meaſures. A part of our forces marched into the camp which the enemy abandoned. A new plan of attack was ſettled, but it was diſconcerted like the former, the King having taken a new poſition between Schweidnitz and Zobtenberg. This poſt is very ſtrong by nature, and the enemy, whoſe principal aim ſeems to be to gain time, is entrenching to the teeth.

Stettin, Sept. 7. The 4th inſtant, in the night, ſome of our armed veſſels took two Swediſh ſhips in the Haff. Beſides killing many on board, we made 70 priſoners, including 3 officers. Twenty guns were found in the enemy's ſhips.

Prague, Sept. 7. On the 29th ult. the King of Pruſſia had his camp between Zettlitz and Wurm, and the Ruſſians theirs at Striegau. Gen. Laudohn, who is embarraſſed by the inaction of the King of Pruſſia, is endeavouring to draw him out of it, and making preparations for a general attack, which we hope will be attended with ſucceſs. The King of Pruſſia, by being reduced to the neceſſity of evading an engagement, is half conquered, for that is not his military ſyſtem, and he is out of his ſphere. Gen. Laudohn has found means to make him play the ſame game in Sileſia, as Prince Henry plays in Saxony. The war would have been at an end by this time, if theſe two Princes had not multiplied the circumſtances of it ſince it began.

Banks of the Oder, Sept. 9. The Auſtrian generals have aſſigned the Ruſſian troops, for their ſubſiſtence, the countries of Lignitz, Jauer, Goldberg, Lemberg, and Herſchberg. Theſe diſtricts ſuffer much from the light troops.

The Ruſſians wait for the coming up of their heavy artillery from Dantzick, to batter Colberg.

Hanover, Sept. 10. Gen. Luckner has ſurpriſed a body of French in the neighbourhood of Marienbourg, and taken 150 of them, whom he has conducted to Hildeſheim.

Magdebourg, Sept. 12. According to the laſt letters from Breſlau, which are dated the 6th inſtant, the King's head-quarters were ſtill at Buntzelwitz, and both the armies remained in their former poſitions. The enemy are employed in anticipating the contributions of ſeveral years.

According to letters from Colberg of the 4th, the combined fleets continued to fire a great number of bombs againſt that place, but without effect, becauſe they all fall ſhort, ſince our bombs obliged the enemy's bomb-ketches to ſtand farther out to ſea.

The brave and indefatigable Col. Belling hath advanced againſt the Swedes, and not only occupied the paſs of Klempenow, but when the Swediſh general attempted on the 4th to diſlodge him, repulſed him with loſs, and obliged him to retire to the Peene.

Bruſſels, Sept. 14. Whereſoever we turn our eyes, no proſpect of an approaching peace is yet to be ſeen. In Spain, they are raiſing abundance of men for the land ſervice, and working diligently on naval preparations. The errand of the Grand Referendary of the crown of Poland to Dantzick, attracts the attention of the public. In Holſtein every thing has a ſerious aſpect; it is ſaid, they are removing to a ſafer place the treaſure and archieves of Kiel, and thoſe of the bailiwicks of Fromſbuttel, Tritow, and Remeck. In another quarter a black cloud ſeems to be gathering, pregnant with a dreadful ſtorm.

Hague, Sept. 17. The laſt advices received from the allied army of the 11th inſt. contain nothing intereſting; they only ſay, that there were frequent ſkirmiſhes between the light troops of both armies; that Prince Ferdinand's head-quarters were ſtill at Buhne, in the biſhoprick of Paderborn; that Gen. Sporcken, with the troops under his command, ſtill encamped in the neighbourhood of Hoxter; and that the Hereditary Prince, having quitted his poſition at Dulmen, was marching towards Ham. Marſhal Broglio has reinforced the Garriſon of Caſſel, which place muſt be ſecured at all events, as the loſs of it would overturn the plan of the whole campaign. As to the armies in Sileſia, they continue much in the ſame poſition, and are watching each other narrowly, without coming to any action that may decide the fate of that province.

Paris, Sept. 13. They write from Madrid, that they are raiſing forces in that kingdom, with the greateſt diligence; that their preparations by ſea are carrying on with equal aſſiduity; that Spain begins to rouſe, and will not remain long inactive, if the negociations for a peace ſhould prove fruitleſs.

Prague, Sept. 8. To oblige the enemy to quit his advantageous poſition, and to be able to lay ſiege to Schweidnitz, Gen. Brentano was firſt reinforced with ſome Ruſſian regiments, and afterwards with Gen. Czernicheff's whole corps. Theſe two generals marched, with their united forces, by Nicholſdorf to Pitſchenberg, to cut off the enemy's communication with Breſlau, and of courſe the carriage of proviſions. This ſtep hath moreover ſecured the Ruſſian army's communication with the Oder, and inſures the ſafety of the convoys ſent to it from Poland.

We expect ſoon an alteration in Saxony. Prince Henry hath already ſent ſeveral detachments towards Brandebourg, and, according to the laſt accounts, had, within a few days, marched 6000 men towards Torgau. That Prince, moreover, ſent a body of forces to meet the army of the empire, which finding itſelf too weak to hazard a deciſive action, retreated from Ronnebourg to Weida. It had been further remarked, that his Royal Highneſs hath ſent off all the heavy baggage of his army towards Magdebourg; and that his troops are kept in conſtant readineſs for a march.

Theſe diſpoſitions, and ſome diſpatches received by Marſhal Daun from Gen. Laudohn, occaſioned a grand council of war to be held at Dreſden (where the Marſhal hath ſtill his head-quarters) at the riſing of which, the plan which had been concerted on the preſent view of affairs, was ſent to Vienna, by a courier who paſſed through this city on Sunday, for the Empreſs Queen's approbation.

Leipſick, Sept. 8. We have moſt melancholy accounts from Sileſia, that fruitful country being entirely deſolated by the war. One half of Lignitz was lately burnt down, and the other has juſt now been pillaged. Many Families of Sileſia are retiring into Luſatia.

The account in ſome foreign Gazettes, that the Pruſſians had expected a freſh contribution of 500,000 crowns from this city (Leipſick) was entirely groundleſs. Our governor is making preparations for a vigorous defence. It is ſaid that the Pruſſians are alſo adding two new works to the fortifications of Torgau.

Hamburgh, Sept. 18. The French have evacuated the Hartz, after raiſing contributions amounting to 100,000 crowns. The Allies, on their part, have carried off hoſtages from Hildeſheim, and ſent them to Stade.

Frontiers of Lower Luſatia, Sept. 12. We hear that Marſhal Daun is ſending to this country a large detachment of troops under the command of Gen. Laſci; which, we hear, is to join a body of Ruſſians that advanced lately to Sprottau on the Boher, in order to attempt ſome diverſion in Brandebourg.

Magdebourg, Sept. 13. The great advantages which the enemy expected from their junction with the Ruſſian army, are not yet obtained The King, who was ſtill encamped on the 5th between Striegau and Wurben, hath made head againſt all the force of the enemy in ſuch a manner, that they have not dared to attack him, or form any enterpriſe. We are well informed, that the baggage of the Ruſſian army paſſed the Oder on the 9th near Steinau; and all our letters from Sileſia agree, that the Ruſſian army under Marſhal Butterlin quitted its camp on the 9th, and took another next day below Lignitz on this ſide of the river of Katzbach, and on the 11th made a motion, by Bienowitz, towards the Oder.

The Ruſſian fleet hath diſcontinued its bombardment of Colberg ever ſince the 27th of Auguſt. On the 29th, 20 veſſels attempted to land ſome troops between Colberger Deep and Maikuhle, and Gen. Romanzoff was to ſupport them with all his cavalry; but our troops prevented the debarkation. The enemy remained quiet till the 4th inſt. when General Romanzoff drew nearer the place, and encamped oppoſite to our right. We have advice that the attacks he made on the Prince of Wurtemburg's entrenchments, between the 4th and the 7th, were without effect.

Duſſeldorp, Sept. 17. The Prince de Soubiſe, according to our laſt accounts, had advanced to Recklinghauſen; upon which the Hereditary Prince returned with the main body of his troops towards the Dymel, after throwing a large reinforcement into Munſter, and leaving three regiments of foot and two of horſe, under Gen. Oheimb, in the neighbourhood of Ham.

Caſſel, Sept. 17. Marſhal Broglio's head-quarters have been at Eimbeck ever ſince the 11th.

Hanover, Sept. 18. The motions of the enemy plainly indicate that they have ſome important deſign in view. On the other hand, Prince Ferdinand, we hear, hath called in his detached corps. We may therefore expect a bloody action, and perhaps a deciſive one.

Weſel, Sept. 19. The Prince de Soubiſe's army hath repaſſed the Lippe. To-morrow it marches to Coesfeldt, and next day, propably to Munſter.

Hague, Sept. 23. Letters from Stettin of the 12th inſt. adviſe, that as the Swedes were ſending a large reinforcement of troops to join the Ruſſians under Gen. Romanzoff before Colberg, the Prince of Bevern, Governor of that place, ſent a party from that garriſon, and burnt the bridge at Wellin, over which they were to paſs; which had ſtopt their progreſs.

LONDON, September 8.

BY a letter from on board His Majeſty's ſloop Weaſel at Belleiſle, there is advice, that they were juſt arrived there from a cruiſe upon the coaſt of Spain, and had on the 9th paſt chaſed a Bayonne privateer, of 18 ſix-pounders, on ſhore, 6 leagues to the eaſtward of Cape Ortugal, where ſhe was intirely loſt; ſhe had 129 men, out of which the Weaſel ſaved 81, whom they brought to Belleiſle; as to the reſt, ſome got aſhore, and ſome were drowned; her loſs was ſo ſudden, that nothing could be ſaved out of her.

We hear that there was a meeting laſt Thurſday, at which ſeveral eminent merchants and bankers attended, to aſſiſt in ſettling the terms for raiſing the ſupplies for the next year; when the ſum of twelve millions was agreed upon, and a tax of ſixpence in the pound on the tenant of every houſe above five pounds a year, was propoſed to pay the intereſt.

September 24. We are told, that in conſequence of ſome negotiations the Danes are to join us.

Whatever may be thought to the contrary, there is, we are aſſured, no ſigns of a renewal of the treaty between the French court and ours, without the former's accepting the laſt terms offered.

On Sunday died, aged 91 years, the right hon. William Lord Blakeney, Knight Companion of the moſt honourable Order of the Bath, Lieutenant General of his Majeſty's forces, Colonel of the Inniſkilling regiment of foot, and late Lieutenant Governor of Minorca, &c.

Sept. 29. It is now ſaid, that Spain has declared, that unleſs we come to terms with France, ſooner than ſee the French king oppreſſed, they will declare War againſt us. It is further added, that in conſequence of theſe threats, many of his majeſty's frigates and ſloops of war are bought up by the merchants of this kingdom, in order to be converted into Privateers, to cruize againſt the Spaniards, ſhould Hoſtilities between us and that kingdom take place.

We hear that a treaty is ſigned between the courts of France and Spain; but of what nature is not known.

Several bomb tenders are taking in bombs at Woolwich. They worked all ſunday, and are ordered round to Spithead with the utmoſt expedition, the fleet being in readineſs, and the bomb veſſels there.

We hear the command of the expedition fleet will be given to ſir Edward Hawke; and that gen. Kingſley will command the land forces.

They write from the Pruſſian camp under the cannon of Colberg, of the 11th inſt. that the Ruſſians had thrown above 2000 bombs and cannon shot into that place, from the 4th instant to the above date, without doing any considerable damage.

ANNAPOLIS, December 10.

Sunday last arrived here the Brigantine Betsey, Capt. Andrews, in Nine Weeks, from Bristol, with about 50 of his Majesty's Seven Year Passengers.

By Capt. Andrews we have Papers no later than the 1st of October. In one in September, we find, that the Lydia and Elizabeth, Capt. Kerr, and the Wilson, Capt. Johnson (with whom went the Hon. DANIEL DULANY Esq; from this Province, arrived on the 6th at Stromness in the Orkneys, after a Passage of 50 Days; from whence they were to be convoyed by his Majesty's Ship the Hound, with the Fishing Vessels from Iceland, which arrived at Stromness also on the 4th, and had had very great Success.

RELIGION, the crowning Excellence of intelligent Nature, claims the Approbation and cloſe Attention of every reaſonable Being, who expects future Bliſs. We are bound from Principles of Gratitude and Intereſt to promote the Honour and Worſhip of the ſupreme Mind, as neceſſary to our own Proſperity, the Good of Society, and future Happineſs of Man. Animated by theſe intereſting Motives, we, of the Preſbyterian Perſuaſion in this Town, deſire, not from Party Views, but from real Principle, to purchaſe a Lot of Ground to erect a decent Church for Divine Service, in which we may worſhip GOD according to our Conſciences. Upon Enquiry we find ourſelves as yet inſufficient to raiſe ſuch a Sum as is neceſſary to accompliſh ſuch an important Deſign, beg Leave therefore to ſollicit the Generoſity of our Fellow-Chriſtians to aſſiſt and encourage us in compleating a ſmall Lottery, at a Time when the Benevolence of our Countrymen is ſo well tried in this Way. We hope our Claim to the public Attention is equal to any that has ſollicited their Notice, and humbly expect that we ſhall meet with general Encouragement.
